The Solomon Northup Legacy along with marker sponsor the City of Auburn welcome you to celebrate the 165th Anniversary Year of Solomon Northup’s Freedom with a historic marker dedicated to 19th century Auburn publishing firm Derby & Miller.

The firm was founded in March 1848 when James C. Derby offered his clerk Norman C. Miller partnership. Their firm would become the leading publisher in the State outside of New York City between 1848-1853.

On July 15, 1853, Derby & Miller published the acclaimed slave-narrative “Twelve Years A Slave.” Northup’s true story inspired the 1984 television drama Solomon Northup’s Odyssey and the 2013 Oscar-winning film 12 Years A Slave.

Join us as we celebrate Auburn’s Hometown History on this momentous occasion.
